Operationalize Academic/Instructional Parameters for Reopening

Prekindergarten-Grade 5

- Grade PreK-5 is planned for an alternate day model with half of the students coming to school on two days a week and the other half of the students coming to school on the other two days a week. Remote Instruction will occur on the two days the students are not in school as well as Wednesday of any week that is five days for all students in PreK-5.

Revised July 31, 2020

- Due to social distancing requirements, all school spaces may be used as instructional spaces (e.g. classroom, cafeteria, special area classrooms).

Grades 6 -12

- Grade 6-12 is planned for an alternate day model with half of the students coming to school on two days a week and the other half of the students coming to school on the other two days a week. Remote Instruction will occur on the two days the students are not in school as well as Wednesday of any week that is five days for all students in 6-12.
- On virtual instruction days, students will be required to participate in classroom work remotely and/or completed assignments. Students' expectations on virtual days will be determined by the teacher based on what will work best for the specific class and what is being learned. An example would be for students to complete an independent reading assignment at home and then have a discussion in class about the material read. Another example would be a flipped classroom where the students would watch the lesson remotely and then come into class the next day and work through guided practice of the skills that were taught.
