Reopening Plans Peru Central School District 2021-2022 School Year

“The Clinton and Essex County Council of Superintendents has confirmed that the state does not intend to issue guidance regarding reopening of schools in September. For months, we have asked New York to provide guidance as soon as possible. The announcement that there will be no direction at all from the state comes as a complete surprise. Now, with only four weeks left before the first day of school, districts will continue the conversation about how best to approach reopening. This will take some time, as each district has a unique set of circumstances regarding their student population, available space and resources, busing, and more. Peru Central School District will remain committed to reopening in-person five days a week, and will share their plans with families and staff as soon as possible.”

“As recently as last week, we were told new guidance was in the works. The state’s reversal today will not derail our plans for a safe reopening. We will release our own reopening guidance to the Peru Central community later this month after we have a Superintendent’s Town Hall Meeting on Tuesday, August 17, at 6:00 pm in the High School Auditorium. We continue to expect that all students will return to full-time in person instruction in September.”
